

Welcome to Scrap Paper Thinking

Yet another website the world doesn't need you might say. You're probably right, but I bet you got random crap going around in your head and are looking for a way to channel it into something useless. There you go, that's what I am doing and that's what Scrap Paper Thinking is about. If you want to write, you might be in the same position as me; i.e. you think about writing most of the time, you jot down notes here and there, you feel bad when you don't feel like writing. Your writing is illegible, your hand tires quickly, because you're a slave to the keyboard. The novelty of your Myspace page peters out after a while. You publish a couple of things in online magazines, but the breakthrough doesn't come. You'll probably never be able to live on it. But what the... You know what you know, each piece you write is unique, published or not. There is none like it anywhere else in the world. Poetry is random, some people don't understand it, don't want to understand it, think it's outdated. I reckon it's the best thing I ever came across.