

Public Republic

Wednesday, 26 November 2008

This is a really interesting project, first started in a Bulgarian version, and now also available in German and English. It's a multi-media journal, covering poetry and prose, visual arts, critique, interviews, reports, etc. I first learnt about Public Republic through my "myspace" friend Katya, who is one of the editors, and I don't want to miss it anymore, not only because I have the honour of having been accepted as one of the contributing authors, but also because it is simply interesting, inspiring and eye-opening.